Behavioural Economist, Post-doc (m/f/d)

We are looking for you:

The International Crops Research Institute for the Semi-Arid Tropics (ICRISAT) needs your expertise to anchor behavioural economics research methods more firmly in its own research. Founded in 1972, the centre is part of CGIAR, a global agricultural research partnership, and focuses its research on cereal cultivation in semi-arid zones. With its application-oriented research, ICRISAT makes an important contribution to improving living conditions, particularly in rural areas. Questions of behavioural change and the psychology of decision-making processes play an increasingly important role here. In particular, the results of the behavioural economics research should promote acceptance, while allowing agricultural innovations to make a broad impact.

Your tasks will involve:

- Developing and conducting research projects on various aspects of human behaviour change like
- Supporting ongoing research programs with behaviour change experiments, data collection and leading the statistical analysis
- Providing support for writing winning research proposals and publication of scientific articles
- Developing and holding training courses on behavioural economics for employees of ICRISAT and cooperation partners

Your profile:

- PhD in economics or social science, agricultural economics or another relevant discipline with a focus on behavioural economics
- Several years' experience in researching behavioural economics, ideally along value chains in low- and middle-income countries
- Relevant experience in collecting and evaluating large amounts of behavioural economics data in addition to analytical and descriptive statistics
- Proven publishing experience in the relevant field
- Fluent business English, and ideally knowledge of French
- In addition you have the citizenship of an EU member state, UK passport holders are eligible to apply

What we offer:

- Varied tasks, which you will be expected to carry out self-responsibly in an international environment
- Cooperation with other development cooperation organisations
- Professional preparation for your assignment abroad
- Local employment contract as an integrated expert for an initial period of two years - contract may be extended
- Attractive monthly top-up payments in addition to local salary and social benefits

One person can make a difference
