The International Crops Research Institute for the Semi-Arid Tropics in Lilongwe / Malawi is looking for a

Post-doc Agricultural Economist for Value Chains and Market Analysis (m/f/d)

We are looking for you:

The International Crops Research Institute for the Semi-Arid Tropics (ICRISAT) needs your expertise to develop alternative and inclusive value chains. Founded in 1972, the centre is part of CGIAR, a global agricultural research partnership, and focuses its research on cereal cultivation in semi-arid zones. With its application-oriented research, ICRISAT makes an important contribution to improving living conditions, particularly in rural areas. Involving women and young people more in regional economic cycles and creating improved income-generating opportunities is a major challenge.

Your tasks will involve:

- Planning and implementing research projects on markets and value chains with particular relevance for smallholder farming households
- Identifying business models that empower women and youth to scale out interventions that bring more equitable benefits to smallholder farmers and consumers
- Analysing and modelling of trade-offs and comparative advantages for alternative value chains for crop-livestock systems
- Developing measures for the promotion of inclusive value chains by public and private stakeholders
- Providing support for writing winning research proposals and publication of scientific articles

Your profile:

- PhD in agriculture or economics, or in another relevant discipline, ideally with a focus on value chains
- Extensive research experience in analysing and modelling value chains in low- and middle-income countries
- Relevant experience in collecting and evaluating large amounts of data, in addition to analytical and descriptive statistics
- Proven publishing experience in the relevant field
- Fluent business English, and ideally knowledge of French
- In addition you have the citizenship of an EU member state, UK passport holders are eligible to apply

What we offer:

- Varied tasks, which you will be expected to carry out self-responsibly in an international environment
- Cooperation with other development cooperation organisations
- Professional preparation for your assignment abroad
- Local employment contract as an integrated expert for an initial period of two years - contract may be extended
- Attractive monthly top-up payments in addition to local salary and social benefits
